

ELECTRIC LIFT CONSULT / OPERATING TABLE

Our back saving consult / operating table has been designed with the occupational health and safety standards in mind.

Lifting either a comatose, or reluctant 50 kilo plus animal onto a standard height table is fraught with problems in the modern veterinary environment.

Our “Back Saver” electric lift table shuts down to just 400 mm off the floor, and opens to a height of 1.0 m, with the simple press of a foot switch. At only 400 mm off the floor it is quite inviting for a dog to simple “hop up” if able to do so.

The operation of the lift system is completely silent, and has a built in fail safe feature, which will not allow the table to collapse at any time.

Table tops can be supplied in a number of configurations so that the unit can double as an operating table with drains, tie points etc, if required.

Additional options include a tether hoop (commonly used in grooming situations ) , and rubber mats.

The unit is completely manufactured from stainless steel, and all electrics are certified for local conditions.
